A TROUBLESOME BABY.

A Family Difficulty Settled at Police Headquarters.

A small baby lay kicking and sprawling on the sofa in the detective office at Police Headquarters last evening, evidently greatly dissatisfied with the little bit of life it had seen and refusing with deadly to be comforted by Lieutenant Vernon and other officers, who vainly tried many little arts to smooth the ruffled spirit of the infant. The baby had a history involving a social scandal, which has just come to light. John Buckley, who keeps a grocery-store in the West End, was married last August. About four months ago a woman named Mrs. Martha Raper entered his store and left a bundle and a letter for the proprietor of the store on the counter. The bundle contained a baby and the letter a statement to the effect that if the baby did not belong to him he could return it, but if it did that he must keep it and raise it for him.

Mr. Buckley kept the baby delivered to him over the counter, and he delivered it to himself. His wife, however, objected to having any child made to the family in that way, and the advent of the baby brought many troubles. The wife, having an opportunity, sent the baby away from the house on Thursday to be cared for, and would not divulge its whereabouts. The mother, who while naturally loving and longing for her baby, made frequent visits to Buckley's house, and thereby provoked several serious family difficulties. On one occasion the wife and the mother of the child met, and a half-pulling contest, the combatants being finally parted by Buckley. By the advice of friends the wife finally concluded to get the baby out of her hands. Mrs. Raper, in her anxiety to regain possession of it, applied to Police Headquarters and told her story. Mrs. Buckley went to Police Headquarters yesterday and expressed her willingness to surrender the infant. Soon afterward the baby itself appeared on the scene in the arms of a colored woman, and was delivered to the wife in the detective office.

The mother of the babe arrived about six o'clock, and the transfer of the property to its rightful owner was made complete, much to the satisfaction of the officers, to whom it had been delivered about six o'clock. The mother of the child, a woman of about thirty years of age, was dressed in a simple, but neat fashion. She was accompanied by a woman named Catherine Cronin. He brought his wife to the house and introduced her to Mrs.

Raper. Three weeks later, while his wife was in the house, Mrs. Raper was delivered of a child, of which Buckley admitted he was the father. Mrs. Raper continued to live at the house, but she was not allowed to see the child. She was forced to leave and took the baby with her. She was unable to support it, however, and sent it back to Buckley and told him to care for it. He accepted the trust and hired a nurse for it, but she was not allowed to see the child. The child remained in his possession until last Thursday, when Mrs.

Buckley sent it away without his knowledge or consent. He immediately informed Mrs.

Raper of the transaction, and she went to Mrs.

Buckley and asked what had become of the baby. She refused to tell, and Mrs. Raper paid the matter before Major Morgan. As soon as Mrs. Buckley learned what had been done she consented to return it to the mother.

Mrs. Raper says that Buckley told her he saw that she and the baby were taken care of properly.

A Lively Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon, about five o'clock, while

Mr. Michael White was driving his horse, attached to a wagon loaded with hay, down Seventh street road, near the Schuetzen Park, the horse became frightened at a ladder protruding from the hay and ran away. When at the bow of Howard University hill the bit broke, and the horse became unmanageable. He tore along at a fearful pace, and turning into Grant avenue upset the vehicle. Mr. White and his eight-year-old son, who were on the wagon at the time, were precipitated to the ground. The boy fell against a corner of a house and was seriously cut about the head. Mr. White had one of his knees badly sprained. Another son of Mr. White, six years of age, and a youth six years of age, named Michael Dill, slipped from the wagon while it was going down Grant avenue and fell into the water. The injured party were taken to their homes, and the horse was taken to the slaughterhouse, and received medical attention.

The Forrest Dramatic Club.

In reply to a card yesterday's National Dramatic Club states that the assertion that the entertainment to be given that evening was not by members of the Forrest Dramatic Club was certainly made under a misapprehension of facts. The original club was disbanded by general consent and its property distributed among the members February 26 last. On the 27th it was reorganized, a new constitution adopted, and new officers elected.

The next day it was duly incorporated. The entertainment advertised to be given last night was by members of the club as reorganized and incorporated. No entertainment was given at Olcott Hall last evening as advertised, although the hall was open and lighted. A few persons straggled in to witness the entertainment, but no one appeared upon the stage.

Convicted Thieves.

The residence of Mr. C. F. Shafer, on Twelfth street, between G and H streets, was entered by thieves about yesterday morning. Mr.

Shafer heard a noise in the lower part of the house, and by coming down stairs frightened the thieves away. It was found that a shutter had been broken off from the window of the servant's room. Nothing was stolen. Last Tuesday night the same house was entered.

The thieves on that occasion, after collecting together the silver and gold articles, and valuable articles in the dining-room, found some bottles of beer in a sideboard and drank deeply, leaving the bottles on the table. They were lighted by a noise upstairs without securing their booty.

Married at the Court-House.

Yesterday morning, about eleven o'clock, a colored couple found their way into the clerk's office of the court and inquiry was made for a marriage license, which was speedily furnished. Next, of course, a minister was in demand, and Dr. Sumnerland being found soon united Edmund Harris and Alice Harris, both of Fairfax county, Va., in the bonds of wedlock. The bridegroom is by no means youthful, being over forty years of age, and his bride is a stout, middle-aged woman, who is said to be a widow. The bride was dressed in a simple, but neat fashion. The groom was dressed in a suit of dark cloth. The ceremony was performed in a quiet and unobtrusive manner. The couple were then taken to the court-house, where they were lodged for the night. They will be married at the court-house, where they
